Commitment to Inclusion

AAD values diversity, in backgrounds and experience. We acknowledge the challenges associated with the work that we do and are committed to developing an inclusive culture for all people. We welcome everyone to apply, especially those individuals who are underrepresented in the industry: women and gender diverse people, LGBTQIA+ folks, culturally and linguistically diverse people and Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander peoples.

Overview

As a Station Leader (SL) on one of Australia's Antarctic stations (including Macquarie Island) you will lead a diverse team of multi-skilled expeditioners on a wide range of exciting science, infrastructure and logistics programs in one of the most remote, isolated and beautiful places on the planet.

The Australian Antarctic Division (AAD) is part of the Commonwealth Department of Climate Change, Energy, the Environment and Water. The AAD is committed to a diverse workplace and seeks to foster a positive and inclusive culture for all employees.

As primary agency for Australia's Antarctic Program (AAP), the AAD, in close partnership with other government portfolios, is responsible for achieving the Australian Government's Antarctic interests to:

- maintain Antarctica's freedom from strategic and/or political confrontation
- preserve our sovereignty over the Australian Antarctic Territory, including our sovereign rights over adjacent offshore areas
- support a strong and effective Antarctic Treaty system
- conduct world-class scientific research consistent with national priorities
- protect the Antarctic environment, having regard to its special qualities and effects on our region

- be informed about and able to influence developments in a region geographically proximate to Australia
- foster economic opportunities arising from Antarctica and the Southern Ocean, consistent with our Antarctic Treaty system obligations including the ban on mining and oil drilling.

The AAD is embarking on the Antarctic Infrastructure Renewal Program (AIRP) to renew ageing infrastructure and progress planning for new state-of-the-art facilities. Once delivered, the AIRP will enhance AAD's ability to deliver world-class science and environmental stewardship across East Antarctica. To facilitate the construction, the AAD is embarking on forming a strategic Alliance with a construction partner. The initial scope of the project will provide new aviation facilities for Casey and Davis stations (package A) and station facility upgrades at Davis station (package B) over the next ten years. The station leader will play an integral role in ensure the successful integration of the Alliance partner into existing operations for the AAP.

You will be responsible for the safety, physical and emotional wellbeing of the station community group and the coordination and management of all programs and expedition personnel (irrespective of employment affiliation or nationality).

Australian Antarctic stations operate all year round so there is a need for a SL at all times. Your employment with the AAD is flexible and could be for a full winter season (12 - 15 months) or for a shorter season (6 - 8 months). We are keen to maximise your experiences and there may be opportunity for multiple deployments and periods of time working with us in Kingston over a number of years. We would be happy to explore innovative approaches with suitably qualified applicants.

The Job

You will report to the General Manager, Antarctic Operations Branch AAD, working through and with direction from the Station and Field Operations Manager. You will be supported by Operations Management Centre and other executive managers to maintain a safe and harmonious workplace while ensuring successful program outcomes.

Representing the Director of the AAD you will be required to ensure that the policies, procedures, Treaty requirements and International collaboration with other Antarctic nations are administered effectively.

In achieving these outcomes you will:

- lead by example;
- support and assist all expeditioners to cope with issues that may result from working in isolation and separation from family and friends;
- be aware of the personal and emotional needs of expeditioners and do what can be done to meet these needs where possible;
- maintain, promote and encourage appropriate levels of tolerance and flexibility in work/social interaction and relationships of a diverse team of expeditioners;
- develop and maintain a productive and cohesive station community, including actively resolving conflict and maintaining discipline when required;
- foster a strong safety culture to ensure the safe conduct of all station and field based programs, including leadership in emergencies such as fire, accident and search and rescue;

- foster a strong environmental culture to maintain the uniqueness of the environment in which you will be living and working; mitigate the environmental impact of operations and ensure environmental laws are observed;
- be responsible for the health and safety of everyone on the station. As an aid to this process, the AAD has developed the Safety Behaviours Framework, with the Station Leader expected to both apply and promote the Framework;
- ensure objectives and priorities are achieved for a successful season, including managing aviation, boating, resupply logistics, construction and field operations, often simultaneously;
- ensure that all programs/expeditioners are appropriately resourced to achieve their defined goals;
- manage individual performance, assess behaviour and work competency, and provide regular constructive feedback, counseling and reporting;
- manage, or as required, coordinate support to scientific, administrative, infrastructure Alliance Works activities and logistics programs, both station and field based;
- roster expeditioners to perform duties for the common good of their station;
- implement Government policies on behalf of the AAD Executive with direction from the Station and Field Operations Manager and the support of the Operations Management Centre;
- manage the implementation of AAD policies for the security of public property and equipment;
- act as an Inspector under the Antarctic Treaty (Environment Protection) Act 1980 as required; and
- perform the functions of Special Constable under the Australian Antarctic Territory Criminal Procedure Ordinance 1993.
- ensure cross functional monitoring, coordination and mutual compliance with AAD Standard Operating Procedures (SOP).
- manage Alliance partnership to ensure the best interest of the AAP.
- mediate Alliance integration ensuring an inclusive and collaborative station environment.
- foster an open and honest culture between AAD and Alliance personnel.

Before you are posted to a station you will spend time with us at the AAD (Kingston, Tasmania) where you will:

- undertake various planning and coordination projects related to the conduct of the expedition;
- supervise expeditioners;
- assist with or participate in training of expeditioners;
- attend your own specialised training and briefing program; and
- perform other tasks necessary for the preparation of the expedition.

This pre-deployment training period may vary from 6 - 12 weeks depending on program requirements and your own experience.

As a proactive and positive member of the community you will:

- Maintain a personal and practical commitment to AAD policies and standard operating procedures (including work, health and safety and environmental policies). Training and guidance in regard to all responsibilities relevant to your position will be provided.

- Be rostered to perform duties to support the community life of the expedition, such as general kitchen duties, garbage clearance, general cleaning duties, and assisting other expedition members with official programs, to ensure an equitable contribution.
- Work in areas outside of your primary role, for example, providing assistance to other areas or science projects, or participating in general labouring tasks such as clearing snow or handling cargo.
